Welcome to our new Parking Enforcement Officer Joe LoCasto:

City of Franklin, TN - Municipal Government

Published by City of Franklin TN 17 · 29 mins ·

Meet Joe LoCasto our new City of Franklin Parking Enforcement Officer. Joe has lived in Franklin for 17 years and looks forward to enforcing Franklin's parking rules and regulations. Park smart Franklin! FYI Officer Joe does not patrol or ticket the new private pay parking lots. Those are not run by the city!

The Franklin Police Department is hosting an Active Shooter Emergency Response Seminar for Citizens on Monday, February 26, 2018, at Franklin Police Headquarters.

It can happen anytime, anywhere – and it does. Acts of mass violence in public places and work settings continue to rock communities throughout the world to their core. “Franklin Police Officers always stand at the ready to deal with the unthinkable,” said Chief Deborah Faulkner. “Community preparedness, combined with law enforcement response to these situations, can make a difference – and save lives.” Police Officers will share with citizens, employers, and community leaders, ways to improve their response to an unforeseen, mass-violence encounter. During our one-and-a-half-hour seminar, officers will discuss three main, national best practices: Avoid, Deny, Defend. Click here to register:

Want your pet to be the face of the Franklin Fire Department this summer? Then enter our pet photo contest! Snap a picture of your pet begging for a treat. Post your photo on the City of Franklin’s Facebook page between February 12 and February 28, 2018 at www.facebook.com/cityoffranklin. The winning photos will be displayed on Franklin Fire Station banners and other media, as part of a CPR promotional campaign. Up to six winners will also receive a gift basket from Mars Petcare.
